ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY

WELCOME

DEAR REDBIRDS,

Illinois State University is proud to support and encourage membership in sororities and fraternities, as these organizations enrich the campus and local community. The community is home to 11.1% of Illinois State students, a total of approximately 2,100 members across our 40+ chapters. The SFL community retains students at a rate of 90.2% compared to Illinois State's overall rate of 81.4% and graduates members at a rate of 81.7% versus Illinois State's overall rate of 64.5%.

The sorority and fraternity community also supports philanthropic and community service projects for members. Over the course of the past year, members raised over $160,000 for nonprofit organizations and contributed almost 20,000 hours of community service.

Besides these significant benefits of membership, sorority and fraternity members at Illinois State find a welcoming home away from home, a support network built on values and care, a supportive administrative unit in the University that provides dynamic education and training, and an enriching experience for alumni.

All students are invited to consider membership in a sorority or fraternity at Illinois State.

Sincerely,

Sorority and Fraternity Life

A unit of the Dean of Students Office, Illinois State University

Why we are Sorority and Fraternity Life

The sorority and fraternity community at Illinois State is rooted in equity and was born from adversity. Sororities and fraternities were not always part of Illinois State. Founded as a teacher's college, the University administration did not see value in having sororities and fraternities on campus. The campus operated under an unwritten rule that banned Greek letter organizations.

In 1942, a group of African American women sought to challenge the status quo by forming a local sorority named Sigma Beta Kappa. When the University administration learned of this initiative, the women were forced to disband and an official policy banning Greek letter organizations was instituted and stayed in place until 1969. One exception was made in 1964, when an individual student was allowed to join the alumnae chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.

After the University's stance on sororities and fraternities was reversed in 1969, several organizations formed on campus including Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, and Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. The initial community consisted of 12 fraternities and eight sororities and has grown to 42-plus chapters with approximately 2,100 members today. The administrative unit supporting these organizations is named Sorority and Fraternity Life in honor of the initial group of African American women who challenged the University to support student life from a new perspective.

How to join a sorority or fraternity

General considerations

- All chapters and some councils set specific academic expectations for students who seek to affiliate. The general minimum for membership is a 2.5 GPA. For some experiences, this is a high school GPA, for others, it is a cumulative college GPA.
- Students are eligible to join a sorority or fraternity starting their first semester at Illinois State, though specific organizations may have alternative requirements.
- All organizations can deny membership for questionable moral character. Conduct unbecoming of a member is defined by each organization. Your actions reflect on your ability to join or remain in the community.
- All organizations have financial obligations throughout the entirety of your undergraduate experience, and many last past your undergraduate experience. Some chapters have live-in housing requirements as well.
- Joining a sorority or fraternity is a lifelong commitment, and you should research choices and options before committing.
- It is never too late to join a sorority or fraternity.

Member chapters of the United Greek Council (UGC) represent different multiethnic communities. Chapters are affiliated with one of the following national organizations: National Association of Latino Fraternal Organizations (NALFO), North American Interfraternity Council (NIC), or National Multicultural Greek Council (NMGCC). The process typically starts with an informational meeting followed by a period of membership education designed to teach the history, values, and commitment of the organization. The membership process culminates with initiation into the organization. Most chapters require a 2.5 minimum GPA to participate in membership selection/intake.

Our campus NPHC is an affiliated chapter of the National Pan-Hellenic Council, founded in 1930 as the governing body of historically Black Greek letter organizations across the country. Member selection/intake is an individualized process that varies by organization. Typically, students can participate in member selection/intake after they have completed 12-24 hours of college credit and earned a 2.5-2.75 GPA.

The chapter determines the member selection/intake process and timeline. The process typically starts with an interest meeting followed by a period of membership education designed to teach the history, values, and commitment of the organization. National Pan-Hellenic chapters and members embrace a lifetime commitment to academic and career achievement, political awareness, and community service.

COLLEGE PANTHELLENIC COUNCIL (CPC)

- Instagram: isu_panhellenic
- Redbird Life: College Panhellenic Council

Most College Panhellenic Council (CPC) chapters are affiliated with the National Panhellenic Conference (NPC). Most organizations either rent or own a house, which may require members to live-in for a year. Most chapters select new members during the primary recruitment period, which takes place before the start of the academic year. Chapters establish their own GPA requirements, with a recommended minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5 from either high school or college. Students will register and pay a fee to participate in primary recruitment during the summer or upon arrival to campus in August. Primary recruitment allows participants to visit each chapter to meet current members and learn more about the organization. Once a student is invited to join a sorority, they will participate in new member education designed to teach the history, values, and expectations of the organization. The membership process culminates with initiation into the organization.

Some chapters will continue to accept new members throughout the fall and spring semesters based on their chapter size.

Outside of the process of primary recruitment, some sororities, based on their chapter size, will be able to participate in continuous open bidding (COB), often called informal recruitment, outside of the primary recruitment period. It is important to recognize that the only way to have an opportunity to join all chapters at Illinois State is to engage in the primary recruitment process, as not all chapters will be able to utilize COB.

Requirements for joining a CPC Organization

- Have a verified 2.5 high school or college GPA to participate in primary recruitment (chapters may have a higher academic requirement to become a member).
- Complete required paperwork and educational programming.

Helpful hints for joining a CPC Organization

- Register for primary recruitment so you can interact with all sorority chapters.
- Research each organization to see which ones align with your personal values.
- Keep an open mind and ask questions to learn about each chapter.
- Meet with the Rho Gammas, current members of the Panhellenic community who have gone through a training process to give support and advice to potential new members during the primary recruitment process.

About unrecognized organizations

Organizations that were once recognized fraternities or sororities at Illinois State University may attempt to continue operations despite losing recognition from the University or inter/national organization. Any operation of these groups is considered underground activity, is against university policy, and is not sanctioned by Sorority and Fraternity Life. Therefore, students should carefully consider the risks of associating with an unrecognized group.

These organizations have had their recognition revoked for various reasons, including hazing, alcohol and drug abuse, risk management violations, and failure to comply with policies and expectations. In almost all cases, these organizations also had their charter suspended or revoked by their inter/national organization because they were not upholding fraternal values and were engaging in risky behaviors that endangered the members and other students. The following groups have lost recognition in recent years for conduct violations:

- Acacia (suspended through 2028)
- Alpha Sigma Phi (suspended through 2028)
- Kappa Sigma Fraternity (suspended through 2025; university revoked recognition)
- Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity (suspended through 2026; charter suspended by National HQ; university revoked recognition)
- Sigma Lambda Beta International Fraternity, Inc. (suspended through 2026; university revoked recognition)

Scan for additional information about unrecognized groups at Illinois State.

Membership in recognized organizations vs. unrecognized

A recognized fraternity or sorority meets the standards set forth by Illinois State and the affiliated inter/national organization to operate at the University. All recognized organizations are monitored for compliance with university policies and procedures, receive education and support, and can access university programs and services.

Benefits of joining a recognized organization:

1. Interaction with other members of the sorority and fraternity community.
2. Access to leadership education and training from the affiliated inter/national organization and Illinois State.
3. Involvement in the United Greek Council (UGC), National Pan-Hellenic Council (NPHC), College Panhellenic Council (CPC), or Interfraternity Council (IFC).
4. Participation in SFL community-wide events and activities.
5. Access to leadership awards and scholarships.
6. Ability to apply for a housing exemption to live in a chapter-facility as a sophomore.

Frequently asked questions

When do students typically join a sorority or fraternity?

Member selection/intake varies by organization and council affiliation. NPHC and UGC organizations independently determine when they will consider new members. IFC chapters typically take new members throughout the fall and spring semesters. CPC organizations take in new members before the start of the academic year, and some CPC organizations may take additional new members later in the fall semester and in the spring semester.

How much does it cost to join a sorority or fraternity?

The financial commitment varies by organization. Fees cover inter/national dues, chapter operating expenses, and social functions. There may be additional costs throughout the semester for items such as photos, gifts, apparel, philanthropies, and special events. Students are encouraged to ask about payment plans and scholarships available through the chapter and the affiliated inter/national organization. Average expenses for chapters affiliated with the governing council include:

IFC: $750 first semester, $650/semester if living outside chapter facility, $3,000/semester when living in the chapter facility

NPHC: $1,250/first semester; $250 subsequent semesters

CPC: First semester dues: $1,200; Live-in costs/dues: $5,350 (per semester; Live out dues: $970 per semester)

UGC: $350/semester

How much time is required to be a member of a sorority or fraternity?

Your involvement will fit into your weekly schedule and, as with other student involvement, the more time and effort contributed to the membership experience, the larger the benefits received. Basic membership will consist of one chapter meeting per week, but will not result in much personal growth or the ability to create strong bonds with other members. Participating in other opportunities, such as community service projects, philanthropy events, brotherhood/sisterhood activities, holding a leadership position, etc., will establish relationships and bonds that will last a lifetime. Your sorority or fraternity involvement will fit into your weekly schedule and allow time for classes, coursework, family, employment, and involvement in other student organizations.

Do I need to identify as a student of color to join a NPHC or UGC sorority or fraternity?

No. Chapters within NPHC and UGC are open to students of all ethnic, racial, and cultural backgrounds. The culturally based sororities and fraternities were founded to provide students of color the opportunity to build support systems and relationships that will allow them to succeed at institutions of higher education. Membership in these organizations is open to all students, with education, service, and philanthropic initiatives focused on underserved populations.

Will joining a sorority or fraternity have a negative impact on my grades?

Academic achievement is the foundational value of all sororities and fraternities. Academic standards include maintaining a minimum GPA and academic support initiatives such as tutoring, study sessions, and other programs to assist members. Students who utilize these resources and properly balance their time commitments will find that membership will enhance their academic performance. Studies have consistently found that sorority and fraternity members tend to be significantly more likely to graduate and report more satisfaction with their university experience than unaffiliated students.

Is hazing a traditional practice in sororities and fraternities at Illinois State?

Hazing is any action that produces bodily harm or danger, mental or physical discomfort, embarrassment, harassment, fright, or ridicule. All national fraternal organizations and institutions of higher education have banned hazing. Illinois State University and the SFL councils rigorously enforce hazing policies, and organizations that violate them are subject to immediate suspension of campus and SFL council recognition and privileges.

The rituals of SFL organizations have nothing to do with hazing; they are not scary, shameful, or degrading. Although rituals are the most important part of membership, it is not hazing.
